

I believe that the FCC should REJECT BellSouth's proposal to eliminate competition among broadband service providers. Due to the number of small service providers who provide DSL service through larger corporations, it is clear that there WILL NOT be competition in the DSL market should BellSouth's petition be granted. The FCC owes it to the taxpayers of america to reject this proposal and keep competition in broadband service.